

Abstract

Low-latency equalization mechanisms for multi-PAM communication systems are disclosed that reduce delay and complexity in signal correction mechanisms. The 5 equalization mechanisms tap into input signals for a multi-PAM signal driver, and compensate for attenuation along a signal transmission line, crosstalk between adjacent lines, and signal reflections due to impedance discontinuities along the line.

10